Journal and served as the inaugural Registered Reports Editor at Human Resource Management Journal. He has also sat on the Editorial Board of several journals. He holds a PhD from Cambridge University.

ABSTRACT

Do you want to get a paper published in a top journal? If so, you first need to think like an editor. In this 1.5 hour workshop, Professor Andrew Timming will share his insight working for years as an Associate Editor at the International Journal of Human Resource Management and later as an Editor at Human Resource Management Journal. This interactive workshop will help you understand what goes on "behind the scenes" in the peer review process. It will also help you develop the right psychology, or mindset, for getting published in the best journals."
